[Sahih Bukhari]

- Aisha Siddiqqah Islamic Girls Academy is the first school of its kind in Ghana
- Currently it accommodates over 100 students

Meet Fati Suli a widow in Ghana. Her husband
passed away in 2012.

- ▶ She lives with her 3 orphaned children Amina, Rafai and Rahinatu, in a house that is barely bigger than the sheds we have in our gardens.
- ▶ Fati suli collects plastic from the streets to provide for her 3 children. In a good week she will earn £2.00
- ▶ Caravan of Mercy intervened as we have done so with many others and now her orphaned children study in our Aisha Siddiqah Islamic Girls academy.
- ▶ Help us make a difference to families just like Fati Suli`s.
- ▶ Sponsor a child in Ghana for £25

Self Sustaining Project (SSP)

'It is better that a person should take a rope and bring a bundle of wood on his back to sell so that Allah may preserve his honour, than that he should beg from people (regardless of whether they give to him or refuse him).' [Bukhari]

- Inspired and armed by our Islamic values we aim to help women break out of the cycle of dependency.
- through our Self Sustaining Project we envisage to make those receiving charity into those that are in a position to one day be giving charity.
- As part of our Self Sustaining project we work very closely with widows providing them valuable skills to earn a sustainable income so they can provide for their orphaned children.

- Earlier this year we helped hundreds of widows and poor women in Ghana establish a trade so they can provide for their families.
- Will you help empower those that are most vulnerable to have the confidence to stand on their own two feet
